PREAMBLE

As the original inhabitants of land territories located on the shores of Lake Nipigon, we were placed here by our Creator and were given many responsibilities and duties in terms of how to live and to interact with mother Earth and her inhabitants. Since time immemorial we have lived in harmony and balance on this continent without any interference from other people or governments. These are the very facts upon which our inherent rights to self-government are based. Therefore, the people of Bingwi Neyaashi Anishinaabek recognize the need for an instrument that sets out rules for determining Membership in Bingwi Neyaashi Anishinaabek.

AND WHEREAS section 10 of the Indian Act recognizes that bands may have their own Membership Code if the majority of the band electors consent to the Code, and if the Membership Code does not deprive Membership to those who acquired membership under the previous rules.

PRINCIPLES

The history and foundation of First Nations is rooted in the belief that they know who they are and why they were put on Mother Earth. It is therefore essential and beneficial for the membership of Bingwi Neyaashi Anishinaabek to adhere and comply with the following principles.

The Creator gave us our spirituality, beliefs, culture, language and the knowledge to respect Mother Earth and to live in harmony with nature and in balance with each other.

The Creator gave us the gift of wisdom and logic to make laws that will protect us and sustain our way of life for the benefit and security of our future generations.

The Creator gave us the right to self-determination and the right to govern ourselves.

The rights and responsibilities given to us by the Creator cannot be altered or taken away by other Nations or their Governments.

We believe and accept the fact that democracy is founded on the principles that everyone is equal and no one is above the law.

We also accept the fact that democracy allows for majority rule with minority rights preserved.
